

Asbjorn Christoffersen
Chief Regulatory Officer
OnAir

Asbjorn Christoffersen was appointed Chief Regulatory Officer of OnAir in 2007. He is responsible for directing all activities required to secure worldwide telecommunications regulatory approvals for OnAir's operation of internet and GSM services onboard aircraft, as well as leading all sales activities relating to telecom operators.

Previously, Asbjorn worked as an independent management and business consultant. In this role he worked for a wide range of companies in the media and telecommunication industry including Yahoo!, Orange and "3". Asbjorn specializes in launch operations and has held leadership roles with six start-up GSM operators.

Asbjorn earned a Master Degree in Law from Copenhagen University in 1993 and spent his early career as a corporate lawyer with Danish law firm Ole Stohn (now Stohn & Partners).
